Delaware Investments adds head of institutional client service

PHILADELPHIA, March 18, 2014 — John Finnegan recently joined Delaware Investments as senior vice president, head of institutional client service. He is responsible for overseeing the firm's client service group, and managing institutional relationships for sub-advisory, public, corporate, Taft-Hartley, insurance, and endowment and foundation clients. The firm's institutional and insurance assets totaled more than $138 billion as of Dec. 31, 2013.

Previously, Finnegan served as managing director of client relations at Turner Investments, starting in 2006. Prior to that, Finnegan worked at Delaware Investments for 14 years, as a client service officer and in various other capacities.

“John has an established track record of building successful relationships across multiple institutional and sub-advisory client segments,” said J. Scott Coleman, executive vice president and head of distribution. “He has a deep understanding of the institutional marketplace, and experience as a client service officer with our firm — these are among the reasons we think he's a great choice to head our client service efforts.”

In his new position, Finnegan reports to Coleman. He started on March 17, 2014.
